

Improv Training Team Building Workshop

TURN DEADLINES INTO PUNCHLINES IMPROV SECRETS TO IMPROVE COMMUNICATION & CREATIVITY

For decades, Improv schools have mastered ways to help actors and comedians think on their feet and improve communication and creativity. These same techniques also work fantastically in a boardroom and around the office.

If you've ever seen a Comedy Improv show or watched the TV show "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" you've seen just how magical this skill can be. Comedians are given ideas from the audience and, within seconds, use fantastic teamwork to create the entire skit from scratch -- while the conversation is occurring!

It isn't magic, though. These actors train using specific communication techniques that your team can also use. And our instructors can teach your team these skills in as little as a couple of hours.

The Rules of Improv:

- "Yes, and": The human brain often jumps to "no" right away. Instead, look for ways to turn no into "yes!"
- Make Your Partner Look Good: Make your teammates look like geniuses -- they'll do it for you!
- Be Bold. Go First!: Be the leader and jump right in. The longer you think about acting, the more likely you won't.

For executives required to think on their Feet.

Improves communication and creativity.

Best for groups of 10-40 people.
